

Information on Publications

The e-zine, 'wordlegs', was founded by Elizabeth Reapy and Cathal Sherlock in early 2010. It was set up to provide a platform to showcase young and emerging Irish writing talent and also to encourage a younger audience back to reading literature.

Ciarán's poem Ribs was published in wordlegs 19, their penultimate issue.

'The Floor Magazine' is an Irish e-zine with the intentions of showcasing the work of new, emerging and emerged writers to help develop a better society and appreciation of writing and art. Created in Limerick by Caleb Brennan and Kev Murphy.

Ciarán's poems little lady and Eyelashes were published in The Floor's first issue, along with Meabh's Self Portrait (In Exam Hall) and The Buoy.

The editor, in his opening monologue, the editor names both as the "stars of the poetry section."
